EDITOR'S ECSTASY

Special greetings go out to the girls of Mason Hall for this issue of the SCRIBE. Parks House will be working with Mason Hall to make "Little 500" weekend a time we'll all remember. If we can get our line of communication working, the girls of Mason will be the feature of the next issue of the SCRIBE, which will be out before the big weekend begins.

Congratulations are in order for two outstanding sophomore Grenadiers-- Don Cox and Bill McConnehey. Don, former Governor of Parks, is the Wright Quad Executive Vice-President-elect. Bill, the Wright Quad Vice-President-elect, served Parks House as Vice-Governor for the past two semesters. Good luck to both of you. Maybe you can convert President-elect Tim Yeager to become a Parks House Grenadier!

Why be considerate of others? Why doesn't everyone turn his record player, TV, or radio on as loud as it will go? Isn't this why a residence hall has an atmosphere for studying? A student isn't supposed to be able to study in his "bedroom", is he? If the shoe fits. . .

Recognition should be given to Bill McConnehey and Dave Tutacko for the many hours of work spent in preparing the framework for the final draft of a Parks House Constitution. Their efforts will certainly play a part in making Parks House student government a little stronger.

Due to popular demand, residents will be able to purchase Parks House stationery. The price of the stationery will be 30¢ for 25 sheets. The full 30¢ will be put into the Parks House treasury. Stationery is available in Room 310.

We are very happy to see Ruter and Harney take the initiative to sponsor a project such as "Awakening '69". Wright Quad has been in need of programs such as this. "Awakening '69" includes quality art work created by residents of Wright. The exhibit is at the north end of Wright's main lounge and is open today and tomorrow from 4-10 p.m.

All of the false fire alarms we have been having the past few weeks may seem harmless now, but if we ever actually had a fire, they might prove tragic. Having been awakened several times during the night, there has been a tendency for residents to become unconcerned about their safety. People had better reread the directions on the alarm boxes. It doesn't say "BREAK GLASS"--it says "BREAK GLASS IN CASE OF FIRE"!

Since the last issue of the SCRIBE was published, another new name has been added to the already distinguished list of scholars living in Parks House. Laurence "Joe" Pease, a sophomore business major, has moved into room 312. Joe's home is Alexandria, Virginia.

The Parks House SCRIBE, a official publication of Parks House, is published once every six weeks by the men of Parks House.

PREVIEW OF COMING ATTRACTIONS
by Bruce Kiesling

The House is sponsoring Mason Hall in the mini-500. The team has already started practicing and has a great chance of winning. The house has the duty of coaching the team and cheering at their practices.

We are also helping them in a fun contest, for the IRHA houses, called a bed race. A bed race consists of three girls and nine guys, all dressed in night wear type costumes, racing somewhere with a bed. (How does that grab you?) Seriously, the bed is used as a baton in a relay race. One girl rides on the bed with the four guys carrying the bed to the relay point where they change members. Prizes will be given for best costumes and the winner of the race.

I'LL COME BACK

I'LL COME BACK

I'LL COME BACK TO . . .

by Tracy Miller

Last week each man in Parks House received his room request form for next fall. I would here like to openly offer some reasons why I am coming back to Wright next fall. Hopefully each of you has weighed the advantages and disadvantages of this quad. But in case you haven't, think about these facts

If you like tradition you'll find that Wright has a twenty year history. Chancellor Wells favors this place and some big names have come from this quad. Check the Parks House scrapbook sometime.

If, on the other hand, you like food, you'll find that Wright has the best dorm food on campus. Check with someone from Wilkie or McNutt. In comparison you'll find that ours is better.

Convenience is also an important factor to consider. How often have you overslept and found that you have ten minutes to get to a class? From almost any other quad there would be no chance of making it on time. But at Wright you can lie back with the assurance that you are cutting a class of your own free will.

A matter of adjustment is important. Look at the structure of the unit here. At all other quads you find sixty men on one floor. It is difficult to know and trust all these fellows, so you are somewhat insecure. You lock your room every time you leave.

At Wright you set up a fraternity of twenty men whom you get to know very well in a few short weeks.

Be sure to think about these things before you write in your center selection for next year. Everything is in favor of returning to Wright Quad and specifically Parks House.

THE FEARLESS FELLAHS OF THE THIRD FLOOR FEBRUARY FIRE
by Dave Tutacko

On February 20 the Third Floor was the scene of what we now proudly call "Our Fire." It started when Stockwell successfully attempted to stuff the incinerator with (Reinhard's) old newspapers--a boress which not even Duffy's could probably compete! But this story has been repeated over and over again and it would be a waste to repeat it here. Instead, I should like to describe what went on on the floor while the hall, the rooms, the eyes, the noses, and the lungs slowly filled with smoke.

The smoke coming out of the incinerator room was ignored at first by those of us who noticed it. By the time the Big Gray Cloud reached 312 the hall was a mass of confusion with people running up and down, some laughing, some screaming, some preaching the end of the world, and some just standing around coughing.

The Reinhard Twins, who have dedicated themselves to this publication, raced back and forth taking light readings, focusing in on evacuees, taking interviews of eye witnesses and generally making pests of themselves.

Stan Berg tried to reassure the near hysterical Bloomington Fire Department over the telephone that it wasn't a real fire, you know, the kind that has red flame, that gets kinda hot and burns things. They can't handle that kind. They only specialize in putting out false alarms.

Bill McConnehey, who has often said that he would rather go down with his expensive record collection than abandon it, was one of the first to grab his coat and head for the exit.

A SUPER JOB, GEORGE

by Tracy Miller

Congratulations, George!

He may be a mean guy once in a while by refusing better food and better services, but George Olson has done a super job in assigning men to Parks House this year.

It appears to me that better fellows could not have been assigned to the House this year. First floor seems to be philosophical, while second floor is organizational. Third floor appears to be the most athletic of the three.

I must admit that house cohesiveness could be better, but at least we've maintained the quality standard of Parks House at the quad level.

Keep it up George. You've done a swell job!

Meanwhile, the rest of us were outside on the street corner directing the Fire Brigade to the location of Wright Quad.

Counselor Baumer, standing outside, and Bob Delph from his third floor window enacted out their own unrehearsed version of the Romeo and Juliet balcony scene; Rich begging Bob to come down, and Bob pleading for Rich to come up and get him. Unfortunately, their only audience was Terry Laymon, who was sitting patiently outside modeling the latest in sleeping wear.

The effects of the fire, the smell of smoke, stayed with us for about a week after. Not even the smell of Reinhard's burning popcorn would help matters.

(The above article is dedicated to Mr. Robert Funcannon, who was not here to witness the event because he was too busy searching the campus for his missing bed.)

Dear Arland and the American

Thanks so much for sending a copy of SCRIBE. Congratulations on the fine work you do with the magazine.

The social life of the student

Dear Mr. Reinhard:

I was pleasantly surprised to receive your anniversary issue of the Parks House SCRIBE.

Your thoughtfulness was very much appreciated.

With avid interest, I read the SCRIBE from first page through the last page, including the special section on the upcoming Quad elections. You have put in a great deal of time and effort and the work of you and your staff is to be commended.

As a former member of Parks House and as the founding editor of the SCRIBE, I can truly appreciate your efforts. It is flattering to learn that one's efforts of nine years ago is still circulating and prospering very well. It is also reassuring to learn that college students basically, really have not changed that much since the years I spent on campus. The players will change, the scenery may vary, but the plot remains the same; that is, the students are still there for one purpose --to gain an education.

May I again congratulate you on a fine publication and express my sincere appreciation of receiving a copy of the same. Keep up the good work and the SCRIBE, no doubt, will win the "Best House Newspaper Award" again this year.

Very truly yours,
Dr. Eugene Reisinger

TO THE EDITOR

DEAR EDITOR: ACCORDING TO THE LAW OF UNLAWFUL ROBBERY WHICH

To the Editor: The Wright Quad snack bar is a pretty good place, you'll have to admit. Where else can you get a nickel coke or ice-cream cone these days? But every silver lining has its cloud--and the snack bar is no exception. There is one thing about it that almost everyone notices and despises: Namely, the old biddy who runs the cash register. In real life she may be a sweet elderly woman who loves animals and buys freedom shares, but she makes one hell of a lousy first impression.

Granted: clothing should be worn at all times in the snack bar, and no one should buy a pack of gum with a ten-dollar bill. But with all respect for decency I think that a person should be allowed to buy a coke with his shoes off. And I really do think that paying for a pack of twinkies in pennies is socially acceptable. And it doesn't stop with that. There is an unwritten law that whomever pays with paper money is subject to a long, hateful stare and/or 15-minute lecture on "just why do you think they put in that change machine, boy?" And so help me God, she gets mad when you don't give her the correct change. In my opinion, she is more of a liability than an asset to the snack bar.

I'm sorry if I've said anything that rubs anyone the wrong way, especially since I see that copies of this issue are going to Mason Hall. And I fully expect to get blasted by some other student who is a dear friend of hers. But, really, the old bag is just plain obnoxious.

Dear Miss Barefax:

We are all concerned about one person on the floor who is really acting strange lately. He has buck teeth, walks funny, and closely scrutinizes all the Playboy pinups in the rooms. When we walk up to him, he merely turns, waves, and says "Hoi!" Is he OK? Signed, Worried

Dear D.G.: add me to your list.

I have four suggestions which, if followed, should be reasonably successful in avoiding the disease: (a) pull your beds apart; (b) sleep by yourself; (c) don't kiss your roommate goodnight; and (d) don't, under any circumstances, eat your meals at the Wright Quad cafeteria.

Signed, Miss B.

Dear Miss Barefax: add me to your list.

Dear Miss Barefax:

The other afternoon, the counselor broke into the governor's mansion, otherwise known as Duffy's Supply Depot, so that he could get at the open visitation forms which were not up yet. We told him the governor would return in twenty minutes, but he said he couldn't wait. How should we handle this?

Mickey Mantle Is Not Coach & has
Softball season starts immediately after spring break. Bring your mitts and batting eye back when you return and be ready for some unusual games. I have been informed that I'm the coach for one team and we'll unleash all our power right from the first going for the big scores! If last season was any indication we'll need a big lead. Contrary to rumor, Mickey Mantle is not coaching the other team.

While on the subject of athletics and activities, the Mini comes to my mind (what's left of it). A softball game and picnic with our co-sponsor might be a heck of a good idea. We had one very successful such outing last year and it was great enough so that another party might be in order.

The Third Floor "Jock", Steve Cates, known as the "Cater", bit the dust Saturday with Marion and Purdue. While participating in his first collegiate Rugby match, Steve was tackled and suffered a fractured ankle. Too bad for the Rugby team--they had high hopes for Steve. Too bad for Steve. At least he'll have a reason for cutting classes now.

Golfers Arise--The Season Is Here

This spring could find Parks winning many laurels in Mini-500 softball, and, you guessed it, golf. Since golf is my pet peeve I feel safe in saying Parks is talent-laden in the sport. INDIANA TANKERS

by Dwight Smith

History is on the side of Indiana in its effort to retain its team title in the National Collegiate Swimming and Diving Championships here March 27-29.

Since team scoring was instituted in 1937 the Big Ten has dominated the meets with 22 championships, as opposed to six from the West Coast and four from the East.

Ohio State leads all with 11, followed by Michigan's ten. Indiana's 1968 triumph was its first. Southern California has won five times and Stanford once to account for the Pacific 8's six titles, while Yale, with four titles, is the only eastern team to win.

Moreover, the tendency has been toward repeat champions. Michigan has put together strings of five and three years, Southern Cal a string of four, while Ohio State twice has won three in a row.

Two of the strong favorites for Indiana will be Charlie Hickcox. He won three gold medals and a silver at the 1968 Olympic Games in recognition as "World Swimmer of the Year" by Swimming World Magazine. He is unbeaten in five previous national collegiate individual appearances.

Figured to be defending champion Indiana's ace-in-the-hole is freshman Mark Spitz, the Santa Clara product who holds three world's records in the butterfly and came home from the Olympics with two gold medals, a silver and a bronze. Just where Indi-

THE FUTURE OF WRIGHT

by Bill McConnehey

I would like to thank all of you who voted on March 20. You have renewed my faith in the potential of student government. But we cannot stop now, or that potential means nothing. And the responsibility rests with you, the individual.

Do not allow your student government to remain isolated and unresponsive. Do not allow the members you have elected to begin playing their own games or ignore the voice of student unrest, as has happened so often in the past. A leadership can only be effective if it has a strong following. And you are the ones who can and must decide the direction in which we move. You must raise your voice, not the weak, unsure voice of the few, but the strong, vibrant voice of all. You must make us aware of your ambitions and desires.

If you will not work with us and help us, student government in Wright Quad will remain a boress. It will not be able to function for the students' benefit and fulfill the dream of constructive change. If you are not with us, "we are impotent, and we are irrelevant." (Helmke) Help us become a potent, viable force. The future of Wright Quad is in your hands. We need your support.

COLLEGE

ELECTION REVUE

Like a regular election, the quad election was held Saturday afternoon at the Parks House lounge. The election was held to elect a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and a Constitution Amendment.

Elections were held on March 20th after being postponed by an IRHA ruling. Between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. approximately 65% of the residents of the quad voted for the candidate of their choice. Because of the highly contested office of President, Parks House held a debate between the Presidential candidates on the 13th in our lounge. The candidates spoke to us explaining their policies and distributing literature. Later, a debate was held before the quad in the main lounge for the benefit of the voters.

The election results are as follows:

Pres.	Stan Berg	140
Vice-Pres.	Pete Wade	141
	Tim Yeager	236
V. Pres.	Mark Maynard	237
Exec. VP	Bill McConnehey	243
Exec. VP	McClellon Cox	442
Trea.	Jim Widner	437
Sec.	Marty Hasz	429
Amendment	Agree	347
	Disagree	138
Total	Ballots Cast	526

The amendment to the quad constitution allows the President to release anyone that he has appointed by consulting with the Executive Cabinet. It does not say that the Executive Cabinet must approve his action. This makes it possible for people to be put in office and then removed before they even begin to learn the ropes. I don't feel that enough publicity had been given to the amendment before the election. It should have been explained to the voters before they were confronted with it at the polls.

PARKS HOUSE

Parks House held its annual election for House officers Wednesday, March 5. Fifty people went to the polls in the lounge between 6 and 11:30 p.m.

The only contested office was that of Governor. However, the offices that were uncontested received several write-in votes.

The House had no candidate for Athletic Chairman so the office was filled by Bruce Kiesling who received more votes out of the nine different names that were written in than anyone else.

Here are the results:

Governor	64%	Patrick Magill	32
	32%	Sydney Marks	17
Vice-Gov.		Norman Chastain	49
Secretary		Ronald Cook	49
Treasurer		Tracy D. Miller	48
Soc. Chmn.		Pedro DeJesus	50
Ath. Chmn.		Bruce Kiesling	12
Constitution	Yes		39
Abstain	6	No	5

(On the lighter side of the elections, Clona received two write-in votes by people evidently trying to get her out of the snack bar. One of the Parks House Grenadiers received a write-in vote, Tracy Miller for treasurer. Nearly 75% of the Grenadiers voted in the election.

The IRHA part of the election was a big boress. It is doubtful if many people actually knew who they were voting for. The candidates had made no apparent attempt to bring the issues to the voters for their consideration. Consequently, most people just marked the ballots without any knowledge of the consequences.

Congratulations Don and Bill! Parks House is proud of both of you.

- b. to plan their respective programs for the men of Parks House,
- c. to report events to take place in either the center or the House to the men of Parks House.

ARTICLE V. Elections

Section I. Elections shall be held the second semester of the academic year during the month of March.

Section II. Elective offices on the House level shall be the Governor, Vice-Governor, Treasurer, Secretary, Social Chairman, Athletic Chairman, and Academic-Cultural Chairman.

Section III. Floor Representatives shall be elected from their respective floors.

Section IV. A resident of Parks House may become a candidate for a House office by submitting a petition bearing ten (10) resident's signatures, no more than five (5) of which may be of residents from the prospective candidate's floor, to the Governor. This shall be done no later than one (1) week prior to the election date set by the House Council.

Section V. A candidate who receives a plurality of the votes cast shall be elected.

Section VI. Those candidates elected shall be announced by the Governor directly following the closing of the polls and the vote tabulation by the Floor Representatives.

Section VII. If an election results in a tie, a run-off election shall be held within one (1) week.

Section VIII. The successful candidate shall assume the office to which he was elected within a two (2)-week period.

Section IX. Any candidate unopposed shall be elected by acclamation.

ARTICLE VI. Impeachment and Removal

Section I. All officers, including Judicial Board members, may be subject to removal by impeachment upon their dereliction of duty or other questionable acts.

Section II. Impeachment proceedings shall be initiated by a three-fourths majority vote of the House Council or two-thirds of the residents' signatures on petition by its presentation to the House Council.

Section III. A special unit meeting shall be called by the House Council to try the impeached officer, with ample opportunity for defense and prosecution arguments.

Section IV. The Judicial Board Chairman shall preside, unless the accused, in which case the Governor shall preside.

Section V. At no time during the impeachment proceedings shall the Governor use his veto.

Section VI. A secret ballot by those present, excepting the defendant, the prosecution, and the presiding officer, shall determine removal, which shall necessitate 2/3 of the House members.

Section VII. The editor of the Scribe may only be removed by a two-thirds majority of the House Council, with the approval of a two-thirds majority of the Parks House men.

ARTICLE VII. Succession

Section I. In the event of the resignation or removal of the Governor, the Vice-Governor shall immediately assume that position.

Section II. The Governor may fill all House office vacancies by appointment with the approval of a majority of the House.

Section III. A special election shall be called by the House Council in the event of vacancies in both offices of Governor and Vice-Governor, or in other unusual situations.

ARTICLE VIII. House Meetings

Section I. There shall be at least one (1) unit meeting every two (2) weeks during the academic semester.
