EDITOR'S ECSTASY

A special welcome goes out to our over 800 new readers for this anniversary issue. Today the SCRIBE is beginning its tenth year of publication. The SCRIBE has won the Quad's "Best House Newspaper Award" for the last five consecutive years, plus 1961, which was the first year that the award was presented.

The new SCRIBE masthead was designed by internationally known Bluffton, Indiana, artist Harry Lindstrand. Mr. Lindstrand has won many awards for his outstanding work with watercolors. Some of his commercial advertisements appear in state and national magazines and newspapers. (The crest is not new.)

A special section of this issue has been devoted to introducing quad residents to the candidates running for positions in student government at the quad level. The SCRIBE staff hopes you will take time to read each of the candidates' statements, make your own decision as to who would be best for the positions, and finally, and most importantly, VOTE. The election will be held Thursday, March 20.

Parks House has three new residents for the second semester. Junior Terry Laymon is a Warren High School graduate majoring in Management and Administration. Bob Halcomb is a business major from Indianapolis and a 1968 Arlington High School graduate. Bob is a second semester freshman as is our third new member, David Wood. Dave, a 1968 graduate of Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis is interested in the Radio-TV area. Dave lives in room 109, Bob in 213, and Terry in room 309. Welcome to your new home.

Scholars Bill McConnehey, Norman Chastain, Richard Baumer, Sidney Marks, and alternate John Petrie, represented Parks House in preliminary Quiz Bowl competition. We certainly thank you for your effort and hope you'll have another crack at it next year.

Junior Terry Laymon of Parks 309 challenges all third floor freshman to play the third floor upper-classmen in a basketball game. The winning team will be treated to soft drinks.

Grenadiers -- Coat-tie dinner Sunday with Dr. Barton. Meet in JAWQ main lounge at 12:15.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a letter written to the men of Parks House by internationally-known geographer, educator, and writer, Dr. Thomas F. Barton. Dr. Barton has been our faculty associate since April of 1961.

Dear Parks House Members:

The few empirical observations made here apply to the Parks House residents I have had the great pleasure of meeting and chatting with while visiting Parks House and the Wright Quad. Many have graduated during this relatively long association and are now scattered in various sections of the United States and I assume some may be found on the various land masses of Africa, Australia, and Eurasia, especially Southeast Asia.

However regardless of where former Parks House members are now living I'm sure they are not only successful in their occupations and professions but are also performing superior ambassadorial services as representatives of Parks House, Wright Quad, Indiana University and if abroad for weeks, months or years, as representatives of the U.S.A.

This impression of optimism is not based on the peaceful tranquillity of any phase of American life--economic, political, social, religious or any other but rather upon the superior quality of young men who have been and are now members of Parks House. This opinion is based on four decades of college teaching and observation. There is no question in my mind and it is possible to report without the slightest reservation that the college students I have met in Parks House during this decade of the 1960's came to college better prepared scholastically and physically and with more well-rounded personalities and balanced strong characters than a quarter of a century ago.

Of course you Parks House young men cannot be given all the credit. Part of what you are is because of the high moral standards your parents lived by which enabled you to inherit a strong body and a good if not superior mind. Part of the credit must always be given to heredity. Also you were fortunate enough to appear on the stage of life and history when hourly mass communication could keep you informed with both work and life-images--the greatest audio-visual communication period to date in the history of the world.

But there are some of your age group (not Parks House members) who are not doing well although some do have high I.Q. ratings and access to the same mass, almost instant, audio-visual communication.

The difference is that the young men I have met at Parks House are open-minded, eager to learn and have the mental and physical ability to drive toward their life goals. It appears to me that you have had (1) stability without wishing "to rest on your oars," (2) determination to develop your talents without being self-centered and ignoring the problems of our times and (3) the good sense to keep "cool" in hectic times. It is regrettable that some of your generation who appear on "center stage" with a variety of tactics are causing the older (Continued p. 6, Col. II)

INTRODUCING . . .

A new Parks House tradition has been started with the publication of this issue--MISS PARKS HOUSE SCRIBE. The SCRIBE Queen for 1969 will reign from February 11, 1969 to February 11, 1970. Plans are already in the making for the selection of MISS PARKS HOUSE SCRIBE--1970.

It should be mentioned that there was no discrimination in this year's selection as only one candidate was considered and the Editor's decision was unanimous--1-0.

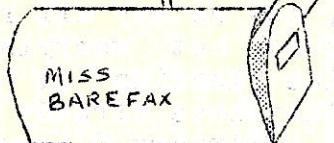

When asked if she would reign as MISS PARKS HOUSE SCRIBE, she replied that she would be "delighted". The original autographed picture will be hung in the Dr. Thomas F. Barton Lounge of Parks House.

Turn now to our unfoldable fold-out and meet MISS PARKS HOUSE SCRIBE--1969 . . .

A while ago, I took out a girl.
She left me to powder her nose,

And she hasn't returned yet!
What do you suggest I do?

Dear Bewildered:

I suggest that you get a girl with a smaller nose.

Dear Miss Barefax:

Due to the war in Vietnam, it seems to me that every American should take it upon himself to make certain sacrifices in the interest of national security.
Our boys over there are in desperate need of certain basic supplies, so we must cut down on their use here at home. My roommate is flagrantly violating this premise in his wasteful overuse of that bare essential, soap. He takes a bath once a week, whether he needs it or not!!! What course of action do you recommend?

Signed,
A PATRIOTIC AMERICAN

Dear PA (Curly):

I suggest that in this instance, we throw national security out the window so that you can shut yours. We should sacrifice it in the interest of the preservation of America's olfactory systems. In other words, take a bath!!

youth today without being open-failing that is centuries old.

The wonderful thing about the released yourselves from rigid

Is it too much to hope, that you are ushering in a great pe-

FAREWELL HOMBRES

By Governor Don Cox

The party is about over; the time has almost come when I must call it a day. My time as governor of a most pompous, but truly great house is about to end. I must say that I have sincerely enjoyed working with the men of Parks. By working with all of you I have learned more about people and how they work, and play! I have seen that trust between members is the best thing in the world--you see I feel that I could trust the men of Parks to do what is "right." I feel very proud of this fact, too.

It has really been a pleasure going to each floor, and just talking with its various members. There have been many invaluable things that have happened in this house. Card playing on the first and third floor, Duffy's on the second floor, the shower parties on the third, second floor intellectuals and music majors, and the first floor drunkards and jailbird, have been "challenging." Being a leader for these groups has been an experience that I will never, never forget.

I hope that by doing some of the things that happen in Parks House that people in the House will think. This is the plea that I make to all of you in the future as members of Parks House. Think about the things going on around you in the House.

Parks House should in the future; Stand and Act Like Men, making mature decisions and actions. I leave you as Governor of Parks with all the confidence that the men will elect officers that are acting in the best interest of the house. Farewell, dear friends.

THE BLUE MEANIES ARE COMING?

By Bill McConnehey

Well, now we may all rest safe and sound, not worrying about the Blue Meanies at all. It seems they have already arrived, for the February 5 issue of the Rutorial has already been distributed (discarded?). Although it is best for one to ignore rumors and lies, I am committing myself to comment on the "Ruter Rubbage", as it is now known in Parks House. This was the type of garbage that might have been expected of the Ruter 2 girls depicted in the "Ask Granny" column of the Wright Times.

It is no wonder that none dared claim editorship of this scandal sheet. Yet, it is wondered who wasted Ruter's money on such propaganda, especially when money is so hard to find in the quad these days.

Those who are responsible for this effort might at least have had the courtesy to be consistent in four pages of editorial comment. Through most of the first four pages of invective, they continually slammed an individual currently running for President of this quad. Then they have the gall to state "But we do not attack the people..." What the hell were they doing? They did not even have the courage to name those being attacked.

In their first paragraph they write, "there are always hostile forces lurking around who cannot leave well enough alone." If "well enough" had been left alone, I.U. would not have open quest hours, Wright Quad would have only one color T.V., no Games Room, no Wright Times, no dollar bill changer, and the world might very well be still in the Dark Ages. They might not like progress, but hopefully a majority of the students do and will be mature and intelligent enough to discount Ruter's version of Pravda and vote for the candidate who was the target of their poison pen letter.

THIRD FLOOR FIDDLE-FADDLE
by Charmin

Remarkably, everything on the Third has been relatively quiet since the last issue of the SCRIBE. The heat has been kept on and there hasn't been any fire alarms lately. The "Kommandoes" had for the time being given up Hearts for the much more cultured game of Chess. It's one of the few games on the Floor that doesn't draw blood. Of course there has been small hardly noticed regressions into the past. For example, the 5 pound box of snow that fell on my head is not worth mentioning now. Nor why should I bring up the "shark fry" we had in front of room 307, compliments of our neighbors from Stockwell House. No, nothing has happened to warrant being told about. I won't even bring up the fact that Mark Harvey almost choked Larry Bottoms to death. It's a long dull story, really.

During finals' week everyone was as quiet as church mice. In fact, as a sign of their appreciation for our reformed ways, First Floor sent up two matresses for us. Not to be outdone in generosity, Mark Harvey beckoned to Marion Siara of the Second Floor, in his own little way, to come up and share in the gifts. In fact, all of Second Floor came. But all was done quietly! Our Beloved Counselor was not disturbed from slumber.

You'd be bored if I told you that as I am writing this article that water is pouring from the wall in room 306 and that Alan Oliver is screaming for help as Bob Delph's bed goes floating out the door, along with everything else--including Alan Oliver.

No, nothing worth noting has happened in the past month. In fact we're all getting disgustingly bored. But things are

LOSS TO PARKS RESIDENT--$250
By Alan Oliver

All of us at one time or another have contemplated what we would do if we witnessed an auto accident or a burglary or some other crime. We have thought it through in our minds until we are sure that we would be able to cope with the situation perfectly. Unfortunately we do not react as we think we might. I know because I found out the hard way. On the evening of January the 31st a burglary took place in Parks House. I witnessed part of it. About 11:45 that evening I was watching a movie on television. As is the custom with Channel 4, they repeated one of their commercials. This was a particularly bad commercial and I had already seen it. I jumped up and left the room to get a drink at the water fountain.

As I passed the door to room 307, I turned my head and glanced in as all the men on the floor do. The men of third floor are quite close and are always looking in on each other to see how things are going.

For that brief second that I looked in as I walked by, I saw two college-age males in the room with their hands in the closets. I had never seen these two people before and did not know if they were friends of Bill McConnehey's or John Hageman's.

The door was wide open and the light was on, so I got a pretty good look at one of them. He was standing in front of the closet with all the clothes from it in his arms still on their hangers. He looked right at me as I walked by, and I saw that he was about six feet tall, medium build, jet black hair, oval face, with a scraggly beard a couple of days old.

I didn't know what to do.

I went on down the hall looking for Bill. He was in the john brushing his teeth. I told him there were a couple of guys in his closet, but he thought I meant some friends of his. In a situation like this I just could not communicate what I thought.

I stepped out the door and looked down the hall again. One of them was standing at the end ready to go out the door. I went back in to get Bill and when we came out he was gone. We went back to the room and found Bill's cigarettes on the floor in the hall. Bill's clothes had been dropped on the floor as if they left in a hurry.

We looked in John's closet and found all of his clothes missing. We still weren't sure whether anything was missing because John was moving out and had been packing a suitcase and a shopping bag on the bed. However, Bill was pretty sure that John had a new suit and a few coats hanging in there earlier in the day.

We called Safety Division to report it and were told to call back when John came back so he could describe what was missing. That really shook us. They could have at least sent one of their officers who just sits around in the main building drinking cokes and eating candy to investigate! What more could we do?

Bill left to go out to eat and David Tutacko and I stayed around to tell John to call Safety when he got back. We went down to the Rec room to watch TV for a while and later came back to find that John had returned.

John asked us laughingly which one of us did it. He thought it was a bore. We had to tell him that it wasn't. Can you imagine how a guy must feel when he finds out that all of his shirts and his raincoat, a winter coat, and a new suit that had only been worn three times have been stolen? He valued the clothes at $250.

He first took out his anger by beating the mattress. We later convinced him to call Safety. They said they would fill out a

Bill soon came back and said that two other guys had seen the pair leave the building. One said they had a cup of beer and the other said one had on a blue coat. Something purple was spilled all down the stairs and along the wall as if someone ran down the stairs in a hurry spilling the contents of the cup.

John was lucky. He had the suitcase and shopping bag laying there on the bed full of clothes. It would have been easy to pick those up too. If that rotten commercial hadn't come on when it did, there very well might not have been any clothes left in that room.

As all of us have thought back over what happened, we wonder what would have happened if. . . if. . . if. . . If I had only tried to stop them. If Bill had only brushed his teeth at a different time. If. . .

It makes you wonder about some people. Just what kind of society are we living in? Some people just have different standards from the rest of us.

There is not much that can be done now. The clothes are gone and will probably never be found. It is unlikely that the thieves live in Wright Quad. I certainly would hope they don't. But if you know of anyone who fits the description given, that has a blue coat, that suddenly has some new clothes, especially a new green suit with vest, and possibly some shirts with a purple stain on them from the beverage spilled in the stairwell would you call 337-5616 and tell me about it. Would you do it for John? Put yourself in his shoes. How would you feel?

GAME ENDS IN STITCHES

By Eric Crosley

They say it doesn't matter whether you win or lose, but it's how you play the game that really counts. But a tie in a basketball game? That's right. The "final score" of the Parks House versus Dunn House game Monday night was 50 to 50. However, the tie score, even though it was so ridiculous, wasn't the really disgusting part of the game. It was the manner in which the game was handled by the referees and the seemingly I-don't-give-a-damn attitude of the Intramural League representative that had the Parks House ball players up in arms.

Here's what happened. Time-out had been called by Dunn House with Parks leading by four points and eleven seconds to go in the game. One of the referees (I won't mention any names) was talking with the Parks five which was huddled on the floor for the time-out. Suddenly, to our surprise, as well as to the referee who was talking with us, a Dunn House player came dribbling by and easily scored a bucket to put them within two points. A Dunn House player then stole the ball on the throw-in and scored the game-tying basket, after the time keeper, Bob Funcannon, had yelled at the top of his lungs that time had expired. Everybody heard him except the referees.

So there you have it. Four points scored by Dunn House, by means of a surprise attack, in slightly more than eleven seconds when there was actually only eleven seconds left to make the final score a tie! Congratulations, refs.

When we talked with the representative after the game to see if we could protest the game, we learned that we didn't have any grounds for protesting. I wonder what kind of "grounds" a team needs before a valid protest can be registered.

By Tom Kelly

The Parks House Blue team managed to defeat the Dunn House B team with a final score of 36-25. John Bleicher and Jim Cadillac led the scoring with 10 points each.

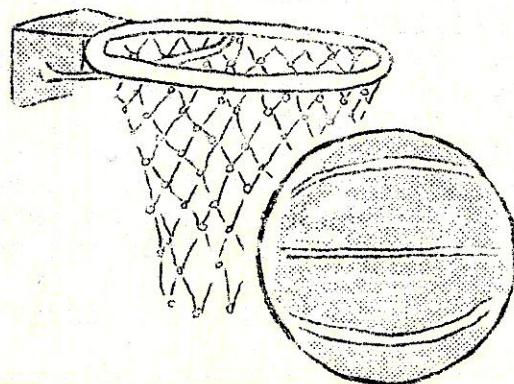

Parks started out slowly, suffering mostly from a lack of organization. The score was Parks ? Dunn 6 at the end of the first quarter. Through the second and third quarters the pace of the game was slowed down somewhat, as the Parks team began working for the good shot. Better team play opened up a ten point margin by the start of the fourth quarter. From then until the finish, it was only a matter of time before Parks Blue walked off with the victory.

The Parks House Blue team is composed mostly of members of the first floor, with the exception of John Bleicher who is from the second floor. The team played fairly well for the first game, and continued improvement could bring a league title to Parks House.

P.S. Bob Delph was injured during the game and was rushed to the Health Center, where he received four stitches in his scalp.

P.S.S. The referees didn't do it!

Scandale

Election

Special

On March 20, the residents of Wright Quadrangle will elect the officers of our Quad government. Do we know the candidates and the offices they seek? To help answer this question, the SCRIBE, as a supplement to its 9th Anniversary Issue, has given the candidates the opportunity to present their qualifications and ideas to you, the voters.

FOR PRESIDENT...

STAN BERG

PETE WADE

TIM YEAGER

For those of you who do not know of me, I believe I can best introduce myself through my accomplishments for you--the residents and students. Through the Recreation Board, of which I was Director until Christmas, I have brought about the Games Room, color televisions, a dollar bill changer, The Wright Times, the Recreation Hall Billiards Tables, and the change from Big-K soft drinks to brand-name drinks in the vending machines. My resignation as Recreation Board Director allowed me time to rewrite the quadrangle constitution, which you will find as a proposal in my General Platform Statement.

I had great hopes at the beginning of this year that Student Government would become more responsible and responsive to the students, but it did not. I cannot blame the Governors or Vice-Governors as they, for the most part, were not cognizant of what was expected of them or of what needed to be done. The budget was rammed down the gullets of the Boards as the President was dissatisfied with the budget that the Budget Committee decided upon. The other executives chaired their Board meetings.

I was very pleased when the SCRIBE invited me to express the reasons I am running for president of Wright Quad. Now I see the task as more complicated, because the reasons are many. This is my second year in Wright Quad. Last year as a first semester freshman I became governor of my house and involved in all the political activity that was going on. Todd House was not strong by any means that year but the officers of Todd decided that we were going to build a strong unit this year. We believe we have in Jenkins House.

Last year I was deeply involved in Student Government. It was a good year. For the first time in many years things were being done. Visitation was passed. Women's hours were removed. Guy Loftman was a president the administration respected. For the 1st time student government started knowing what it was talking about. This was when things started happening. That year Wright was a hotbed for this "radical" movement. We were discontent with the lack of action on the part of IRHA and sought to withdraw. At that point in time I was strongly in favor of such a move. I've changed. I

I am a sophomore with a 3.2 grade average running for President of Wright Quadrangle. During the past three semesters, I have been involved in Student Government and have been able to observe it in action from several different viewpoints. My Student Government career began a year ago last September as a Vice-Governor which included work as a member of the Internal Affairs Committee. Mike Stump, former president of Wright Quad, asked me to take the position of Academic-Cultural Coordinate. Under my direction, the Coordinate ordered $1500 worth of new books, records and art prints for the Wright Library, ordered and had installed the new 15' x 20' projection screen in the Dining Room, and revived the then dormant JAWQ Film Series.

Little more than a year ago, I aided the Quad Executive Committee in establishing the Recreation Board and was asked to serve as its first Director. In this role, I attempted to organize the Coordinates and coordinate their activities to create an environment here in Wright which would offer the ultimate in social, athletic, and academic-cultural activities. Unings and virtually nothing was accomplished by the Boards. In perusing the minutes of the Board meetings, one can readily see that there is scarcely anything worth mentioning. At the start of the Fall Semester, it was agreed upon by the Executives and the Boards that a new quad constitution should be written; yet, to this date, due to the laxity of the Executives, there is no new quad constitution other than the one I am proposing through my platform. That just about sums up the year thus far.

A good question at this point would be: How do I expect to accomplish what the present Executives could not? I have already begun the process with the re-writing of the quad Constitution. I do not claim the new constitution to be a "cure-all"; however, it is at least a constitution under which we might be able to work. I hope to set the Boards to accomplishing what has never before been accomplished--the creating of an awareness of their position--its possibilities and responsibilities. In order for a legislative body to be efficient and effective, it must be cognizant of the problems surrounding it. There are many more problem areas that need to be touched on--student power, a power parity between the three branches of center student government, and the education of the students and their representatives; unfortunately, space does not permit me to write further; however, I do urge you to read my General Platform Statement and come to the House meetings which I will be attending; I will attempt to answer all your questions at that time.

now see IRHA as a valuable working instrument. We need to become as sophisticated as student senate was last year. If we know the facts and can explain to the Halls of Residence Association why we want something done, and how they are able to do it, then we will have stopped just asking in the dark for unattainables. We will show our responsibility and the administration may lose its initial scepticism to any plan that IRHA or the students of any quadrangle present.

Next year Wright Quad will be paid for. That is the time to start setting precedents for individual center and IRHA action. Why can't Wright have a new main lounge? How do our food services compare with those of other universities? How could they be improved? I would like to be president of a quadrangle that would find out the answers instead of just asking for change. Knowledge can be a practical tool and not just for passing tests.

So what do I want? I want a better quad just like the other candidates. I have my ideas about improving the quad. I also feel that I am open minded enough to listen to individual gripes, weigh them in my own mind, talk it over with others and see what can be done.

So what can I say? I want to be a president that will do a good job in the areas that people are interested in. I want student government to be a responsive and powerful organization. I will try to make it that way if elected. In the next two weeks you will see me and hear ideas. During that time I will present my case and in the end call for your vote.

FOR EXECUTIVE V-P

MCCLELLON COX

United We Stand!

I am McClellon D. Cox, and I am running for Executive Vice-President of Wright Quad. My past experiences have been governor and Vice-Governor of Parks House. I like to think that I did a good job in leading my house. I hope that I did.

I would suppose that it is customary for those who are running for an office to write a platform speech, and why should I be any different. Because "platform speeches" are filled with acts that sometimes are very hard to activate I will not make a platform speech as such. I will not make any grand promises that I can not keep, but there are certain definite things that I will sincerely try to do.

The job of Executive Vice-

President seems to me a fulcrum in the executive cabinet. He helps to balance the quad top offices. This is the way it appears to me:

Pres.	Exec. V.P.	V-Pres.
[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]	[REDACTED]

This diagram shows to me that the executive Vice-President is, or can be the uniting force in the quad. This, then is my stand. I think that by trying to unite the executive committee, the quad (houses) is united. I feel that it is also the responsibility for the executive vice-president to involve as many as possible in the quad activities. This means better communication systems and personal contacts with more people in the quad. I feel that if I am representing a group of people that I should know how they feel, and try to act accordingly. By investiga-under my supervision, the Recreation Board continued the well-received Film Series, had a highly successful informal dance, and did the research and legwork necessary for the establishment of the Wright Quad Games Room last March.

Last Spring, I was elected Executive Vice-President, the position I hold today. Much additional valuable experience was gained during my job as Wright Orientation Chairman during the planning stage last spring and the actual program this fall.

Should I be elected to the office of President, I will work toward an administration which will concern itself more with domestic issues and would try to be more responsive to the needs and wants of you, the residents of the Quad. During this past semester, I have observed a definite over-emphasis on Recreational programming. I feel that it is time for Wright Quad to undergo an "Academic Renaissance." While keeping Recreational programming at its present level of operation, I should like to see an equal emphasis on maintaining an atmosphere here in Wright which would be conducive to academic pursuit. I am definitely in favor of Open Guest Hours and the educational and social benefits such a policy can offer.

I want Wright Quad to be the number one residence hall on campus, but to do this it must offer an environment in which a resident can pursue his academic objectives in the best possible manner with the least amount of discomfort. This, in short, is the goal I am seeking with the election of President. I should be most happy to discuss my candidacy with any Wright resident at any time during the next few weeks. I live in Room 101 Nichols (10), phone 337-2039.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT . . .

WILLIAM McCONNHEY

As the Vice-Governor of Parks House since last Feb 1, I have attempted to better the lives of both my constituents and the other residents of Wright Quadrangle. Although unsuccessful in this endeavor at times, I feel I have improved my own attitudes and life. I have become committed to the student power movement in body and spirit.

Wright Quadrangle, once the core of "Le Resistance", has lost its place in the movement, and has once again become a cog in the bureaucracy of the administration-oriented IRHA. Perhaps "well enough" should be left alone, but I feel we should strive to regain our individuality and bring the student power movement back into the residence halls. This is why I am now announcing my candidacy for Vice-President of Wright Quad.

Wright has a great potential, but this potential can only be utilized with effective leadership. During my residence here, I have heard a weak and muted voice raised against the tyranny of the administration. The Student Bill of Rights has been consistently ignored and violated, and neither IRHA nor the leadership of Wright has protested. You say protest is futile? Not when the voices of 10,000 or 800 students are joined in unison.

We have been waiting long enough for IRHA to change its course. If the students here in Wright do not take the initiative and elect progressive leadership, we will sink back into the sandbox, on the brink of which we have been teetering all year.

If you do not wish to make the rules under which we live, to have a strong voice in the Executive Committee, or if you

PETE HAMANG

Why should the men of Parks House consider Pete Hamang the best candidate for the Vice-Presidency of Wright? The best candidate must be concerned with Unit, quad, and campus government. I am. As the Harding House Governor, Chairman of Wright's Winning float and a member of the Constitutional committee I have worked hard in these areas.

I believe that Wright can be the best Quad at I.U., the campus leader socially, academically and politically. Good planning, more funds, and interest are necessary. I can help generate these. A $15.00 activity fee from HRA and a more integrated, efficient use of Rec Board funds is needed. Sensible enforcement of Quiet Hours, a tutoring system, and use of our main lounge past midnight can aid all our accunes.

The Vice-President must ask "What does the quad want," both enthusiastically and critically. If this had been the case last semester we might not have sunk $1200.00 in sweatshirts and $1600.00 in the two Quad dances with only $528.00 returned. The units and the quad would have had more money for next semester. As a governor I asked these questions and will continue to.

Student government is an effective power when used sensibly but we must use it. Sure, we have Open Visitation, now let's expand it. Let's show the administration it doesn't have to threaten us with closing our lounges or kitchens. We are ado not believe in student power, do not vote for me. If you do wish and believe in these things, I welcome your support. Thank you.

Mike Kilgore has announced his candidacy for President of Wright Quadrangle. Due to the fact that time did not permit Mr. Kilgore to submit a statement to the SCRIBE, we wish to make it clear that Mr. Kilgore is very willing to discuss his ideas with all interested parties. He may be contacted by phoning 337-2515 or by going to room 112, Rollins (7).

ting all possible methods of communication, I will find one of two that will work for this quad.

It seems to me that if Wright Quad is strong within, without bickering over budgets, various personality conflicts, and no trust, it will be able to work efficiently in IRHA and campus student government. Sincerity, straight-forward attitude, and honesty are essential for Wright Quad to move farther ahead.

To unite Wright Quad as much as I possibly can is my thing! Whether Executive Vice-President or otherwise I will do my best to carry this out.

dults and deserve not only the privileges but the responsibilities. We can make HRA pay for Quad improvements and the University expand courses, ending 7:30 classes and frustrating registrations. We can change the Bookstore from a cattle market to a fair and well-supplied text center. As your V-P I'll work for these and other goals. But I'll need your help. Talk to me, Pete Hamang #543. I want Wright to be the best and I'll work for it and you.

VOTE MARCH 20

House elections will be held on March 5. Although three weeks yet remain till voting day, a few have already "thrown their hat into the ring." The Anniversary SCRIBE now presents these candidates to you, the men of Parks House.

FOR GOVERNOR: LARRY BOTTOMS

Guess who? Well it is only me, Larry "Butt" Bottoms! I am here to talk to you about my candidacy for the Governorship of Parks House.

Before continuing, I would like to get something straight! When one thinks of me he thinks a jolly fat man, a goofy, playful soul always looking to have a good time. But funny as I may be, I do have my serious moments, and this is undoubtedly one of them. So when you read what I have to say, please have in mind that this is of the utmost sincerity and seriousness. At the same time that I have put all fun and games aside, I feel that it would be wise for you to be somewhat serious.

I will not list my qualifications, and past high school experiences, because I think they would bore you as much as me. I do not feel that these qualifications are of the most importance. What do I feel is most important? The candidates' views and attitudes on the University, the Quad, Parks House, and most important the MEN of Parks House.

As a candidate, I will not make any outlandish promises that I would be unable to keep. To be truthful, I don't even have a platform. All that I plan to do is represent the men of Parks House to the best of my ability. I will meet the problems and tasks of this office as they are thrown before me. The decisions that I make (if elected) will not only be of my own thought and opinion, but will be the thoughts and opinions of the men of the house.

I will try to make many advan-

FOR GOVERNOR: SIDNEY MARKS

What are the purposes of house and quad government? They have been enforcing University rules and providing academic, social, and cultural experiences. In this framework, government has worked quite well. But, if so, why is there widespread dissatisfaction and disillusionment with student government? Student government has been unable to represent the basic interests of the students. Because, whenever an important question arises, our student government is handcuffed by Wright Quad and IRHA constitutions, whereby government supposes to derive its power. In satisfying the constitution, the basic interests of the students are overruled. Student government should draw its power from the students so whenever a question pertaining to the interests of the students arise, they should be free to act.

I advocate democratic control of the educational processes by the students from the appointment of trustees, chancellors, and faculty to deciding curriculum and degree requirements. If elected governor I will work toward this end with the best of my ability. I know that this question will never be decided by Wright Quad, Board of Governors or Parks House Council, but it reflects how I intend to represent our house. I will organize the interests of Parks House residents and attempt to make those interests functional even if in so doing I overstep my constitutional authority. I believe that it is time for student government to separate itself from administration and begin to represent the students.

FOR VICE-GOV.: NORMAN CHASTAIN

For those who are not acquainted with me, I am a freshman from Columbus and a resident of second floor, Parks House. During my stay here at the University I have become well acclimated to campus life and have seized upon some of the numerous opportunities to supplement my education through outside activities. But my desire for participation does not terminate here; I feel I should become involved even more in campus life. My greatest desire regarding this point is to do something for my house. For this reason, I have chosen to seek the Vice-Governor post of Parks House.

In and out of high school I managed to participate in certain activities. For two years I was a member of the Student Assembly of Columbus High School; this group served as a legislative body of seventy-five representatives for the 2500 students of the school. Our work was directed mainly in formulating certain rules and regulations, student activities, and academic policies. In addition to student government, I was President of my club in my senior year, a member of a symphonic band and a dance band, and a member of the Honor Society. Outside of high school activities I was in 4-H for eight years, serving as President of my club, in addition to other offices.

Upon arriving at Indiana University I became involved almost immediately in activities of the House. I participated in the scavenger hunt, yell contests, serenades, exchange dinners, and attended athletic events and house meetings. As of late I have teamed with three other Parks House members in the Quiz Bowl. As far as my grades are concerned, the first semester I acquired a 3.4 average in fifteen hours of study.

My desire to do something for my house, along with my enjoyment in working in clubs and student government in the past, has encouraged me to announce my candidacy for Vice - Governor of Parks House. I feel I can capably represent Parks House on the Board of Vice-Governors and work with regard to the needs and interests of the residents of the House. I also feel I can report efficiently to the house residents about what is being accomplished by the Board of Vice-Governors for their benefit and to their interests. With this type of communication between House and Quad, I feel that increased concern regarding Quad affairs and more participation can be generated in the residents of Parks House. In turn, greater house unity will be the end of such overt responses by the residents.

I trust that, with these thoughts in mind, you will seriously contemplate my bid for Vice-Governor of Parks House.

ces in the betterment of the house. When making these advancements I will think of the house but will also have to consider the rules and restrictions of the University itself. Sure I will agree that many students are displeased and dissatisfied with some of the policies of the University. When one looks at the administration and their regulations, he can see the basis and purpose behind them. But some rules and regulations do become outdated, and at this time (with the consent of the house) I will do my best to alter, amend, and change such rules.

Finally, I would like to say that the student has the power and intelligence to do almost anything he wishes. I feel that students should run the governing body of the University. So when you vote on March 5, use your head and select the candidate that you feel will represent you in the best way possible.
